SUMMER

Sipping and Sliding in the Summer Sun

The summer of 2005 was definitely a summer to remember. Many students would agree that this was the summer to be out. With the sun always shining and the clouds at a minimum, one could find most JDHS students at the beach. Most of our teens say that Belmar was the hot spot this year, while others would agree that Seaside was more enjoyable because of the boardwalk. All in all, the beach was the place to be.

Aside from the beach, students spent their time making money working a summer job. For most teens, having a summer job was their main source of income. The majority of people worked at camps and local stores, but they made sure that their job didn't take up all their free time. "The summer is our down time. Although we do work, we make sure that we will still be able to go out and relax. We look forward to the summer to get away from the stresses that come along with the school year," says senior Sara Feld.

To end the summer, some Dayton students went on vacation with their families and friends. Going on vacation in late August is a good way to tie up the summer break, leaving students with good memories to take with them during the long winter. Senior Angie Heiba claims that her trip to Cancun was the best. "It made me feel like I did something this summer other than watching a lot of T.V. and that I didn't waste my time staying in town."

The summer of 2005 was one full with great memories and good times. As all summers do, many bonds were formed. Walking down the halls one can still hear stories from those warm nights that fill the hearts and minds of Dayton students.

TWISTER THE HOT SPOT

Prom

BY CARINA SILVA

On May 20, 2005, students waited anxiously for the clock to strike 1:00 p.m. so they could race to the office to get signed out and begin getting ready for a night full of memories. Countless hours spent looking for the perfect dress and tuxedo and last minute hair and nail appointments made both the guys and girls look glamorous at the Junior/Senior prom.

The Bridgewater Manor looked absolutely beautiful with the theme of "Mardi Gras" which went perfectly with all the stunning and vibrant colored dresses. "I think the prom committee did really well. The decorations were awesome and it's going to be difficult to top it," says senior Bitzy Rodriguez.

After dancing the night away, the prom king, queen, prince, and princess were announced. Students waited patiently to find out their prom king was Jesse Fishbein and queen was Laura Frankel. Their prince was junior York Cook and princess was junior Cathy Dymek. "I was very amazed to find out who everyone chose...it was very surprising!" says senior Julie Nittolo.

Everyone had the time of their lives at the prom, but the night didn't end there. Although the prom was coming to a close around midnight, the fun was not over. After the prom, many students went to New York and enjoyed themselves at comedy clubs, while others went on an amazing cruise.

It was a night to remember for everyone who attended prom: from the stress of getting ready, to seeing friends and dates look absolutely astonishing, to dancing all night at the beautiful Bridgewater Manor, and to, of course, the thrilling after prom activities. "I loved every part of prom! It was incredible seeing all my friends looking beautiful and having fun," commented senior Laryssa Lukiw.

May 20, 2005 was a wonderful night to remember; the 2005 prom Mardi Gras won't be forgotten any time soon!

HOMECOMING

THESE KIDS HAVE ANTS IN THEIR PANTS!

BY ANDREA PEREZ

On October 22, 2005, students walked into a decorated gym ready to bust out some moves. Students left their belongings on the bleachers and the gym became a dance floor for the night. As most danced, others enjoyed drinks and candy, chatting with friends, and everyone liked the music. "Everyone looked great!" exclaimed Casey Kennedy, a freshman who attended homecoming for the first time.

"It was the first time everyone in our grade really hung out," explained Gina Molinaro. As seniors awaited the announcements of superlative winners, everyone voted for the homecoming princes and princesses and the king and queen. After two hours of fun, the lights went on and students knew it was that time. Everyone gathered around the stage and Yakentha Cadet and Anna D'Achille, the yearbook editors, announced the superlative winners to a cheering crowd. After the commotion, Zach Silverman and Sarah Suffir announced the titles of Homecoming princes and princesses of each class: for the freshmen, Zach Floyd and Kim Alonzo; for the sophomores, Vinny Inneo and Carissa Clark; and for the juniors, Anthony Abbate and Christina Imbriano. The honor of King and Queen were given to seniors Jake Floyd and Kathryn Stigliano.

After all of the excitement the gym lights went off once again and everyone went back to the fun. Although the night eventually came to an end, the 2005 Homecoming was a night to remember for all who attended.

School Spirit

"NUMERO UNO"

BY STEPHANIE LUCIANO

Every Septemeber, each grade gets together to begin making the necessary decorations for the first spirit event of the year - Pep Rally. When searching for spirit at Jonathan Dayton, it's sometimes hard to tell who has it and who doesn't; however, all that changes during Spirit Week. Students set aside many nights during Spirit Week to compete in interclass volleyball games, fill up containers for penny wars, and to decorate the hallways and gym.

This year the seniors won for most school spirited. "This was one of the best pep rallies we have ever had because we actually have a football team!" Laryssa Lukiw stated excitedly. The spirit of the football team definitely made every one else even more enthusiastic.

Knowing that this was one of her last high school pep rallies, Gina Molinaro was enthralled to find that her grade actually had some school spirit. "I was happy to know that our grade got most school spirited because we all were able to come together and make noise."

Although Jonathan Dayton can't be counted on having school spirit every day of the week, it is guaranteed that when Spirit Week comes along the students at JDHS are ready and willing for fight for the school spirit megaphone!

Cars

Red Light, Green Light

Article By EJ MCLAUGHLIN

While looking around the Jonathan Dayton parking lot, one can see its students have great pride in their cars. While most students don't drive mom's minivan or dad's pickup, the ones who do are content with what they have. "It's better than no car at all," states Mike Levitz.

Most students' priorities are to have a car with a sleek sense of style. Many of Dayton's students spend tons of hard-earned money on all the "necessities," Chris Thekkan says. Whether it be installing new rims and a sound system, or a new cold air intake system and exhaust, an eclectic variety of "tuners" can always be found at Dayton parking lot. Two extremely popular cars in the lot are Chris Thekkan's sporty 230 horsepower Acura rsx type-s or Alex Gorelik's luxurious 2005 Acura TL.

However, many students are just happy to have their licenses and don't bother "tuning" their cars. Between paying their way through getting their permit, taking their license test, and the expensive price of gas, some students say "its just too much".

Regardless of what kind of a car a student drives, or whether a student has a car at all, Jonathan Dayton drivers are appreciative of their long-awaited independence.

JOBS

By Alan Steinberg

Making Monopoly Money

As a teenager, having a job is a huge responsibility. Students of JDHS have to handle their school work, sports, and clubs before even considering an after school job. Some students have had up to 6 jobs, when others haven't experienced the work life. "I started working my freshman year, and I've been working ever since. It's nice to have a steady job and extra money when I need it," says senior Stephanie Luciano.

Jake Del Mauro, local sports enthusiast, only had good things to say about his work place. "I wouldn't work anywhere else! I enjoy interacting with all the people and hearing all they have to say. It's fun and easy," he proudly states about his safe haven Shop Rite.

"You can only get positive things out of each working experience. I've had 3 jobs, and I take a little bit of each experience with me everywhere I go," says Jake. Students with jobs not only learn to manage their own money, they meet new people and become a little more prepared for the real world each day.

A Good Place to Break Out a Game

BY AMANDA RODRIGUEZ

Whether on the weekends or weekdays, the students at Jonathan Dayton can always be found hanging out and having fun regardless of where they are. They can be found hanging out at 7-11, Dunkin' Donuts, T.G.I. Fridays, at the movies, "chillin'" at friend's house, or even in the city.

The city is said to be the most exciting place to hang out because of its diversity. There is so much to do in New York City, including: shopping, dancing, and eating at the most amazing restaurants. Senior Anna D'Achille claims, "Seeing a Broadway show is the most incredible experience...especially since theatres are in the center of New York City!"

On the weekdays, Dayton students can be found at numerous school-related activities such as plays, dances, gym decorating, and even athletic games. According to senior Yakentha, "Our grade during the past two years, has come closer together. A majority of the grade hangs out with one another."

Elizabeth Rodriguez, a senior at Dayton, says, "I know there's nothing to do in Springfield, but as long as I'm hanging out with my friends I'm having fun." Wherever Dayton students are hanging out, they are sure to have a good time as long as it is spent with friends.

STYLE

Style is an extremely important part of the students' lives here at Jonathan Dayton. For some people it's a statement declaring what ever they may want, and for others, it's all about comfort. No matter what the reason, one's style at Jonathan Dayton is an very important factor.

Lauren Alford, a well-known and well-loved member of the Dayton community, commented bluntly about her style. "[I dress this way] because it's me and nobody else can copy me. It's my goal to always look my best even if it kills me." She's not the only one - the majority of Dayton students are dedicated to maintaining their individual styles.

However, having style doesn't always mean having fancy new things; sometimes it's all about the random things from years past that you find in your closet. Chris Chin takes advantage of the leftovers in his closet and turns them into a style that reflects him. "I acquire my from all over. I even wear clothes from when I was younger. The trend used to be, 'wear what was cool,' but now it's better to be unique."

The fashion at Dayton plays an extremely important role in its students' lives. When you look back at your high school years, you'll most likely think of the style and amazing fashion trends that you and your friends had.

HALLOWEEN

GUESS WHO?

BY JULIE NITTOLO

Halloween at Dayton was a bit different this year; students, unfortunately, were not allowed to dress up. "It didn't even feel like Halloween this year because of the whole issue in school," says senior Carina Silva.

However, students found their own ways to celebrate the holiday. Many wore costumes - ranging from homemade digital pets to pirates to vintage glamour girls - for their trick-or-treating adventures. Others celebrated the day by getting dressed up for Halloween parties. "The school day was like any other school day, but the parties at night made everything better," said senior Joe Palitto with a grin.

Despite the minor glitches, this Halloween was extremely fun for everyone!

LUNCH

Hungry, Hungry Hippos

BY JOLIE MARRIN

Lunch is a very important part of the day for most students. It's the only time when students truly get to relax and be with their friends in a social setting. This year the time allowed for lunch has increased from thirty minutes to forty five minutes and there are three different lunch periods this year as opposed to the two in the past.

Alyssa Grobarz is pleased with the new forty-five minute lunch period. Alyssa said, "It's a nice break and it gives you plenty of time to eat and order your lunch." Students prefer to be in a lunch period with their friends. "The best period to have lunch is 6th period," according to Alyssa, "because it's in the middle of the day and that's when I get hungry."

The types of lunches being served in the lunchroom are a very important aspect of eating at Dayton. While some students bring lunch, others buy, depending on what is being served that day. Alyssa says, "Sometimes I bring lunch and sometimes I buy. It all depends on whether I have money or not." Alyssa enjoys the food being served in the lunchroom, but wishes they would serve tacos because she thinks they taste good.

Yakentha Cadet, a senior at JDHS, says,

"Lunch isn't lunch without eating a greasy meal followed by a chocolate chip cookie." Without lunch, school wouldn't be half as good.

LOCKERS

A Closet for Our Games

BY MATTHEW BUTLER

As a high school student, having a locker is part of everyday life. Although it is primarily used for storage, it's also used as a place to hang out for students and their friends.

Most students spend a good part of their day going to and from their lockers; however, even though lockers have many practical uses, they can also be a pain. Sophomore Lucas Biebelberg explained. "Lockers are good because you have a place to put belongings, but if it gets jammed it's hard to get to class on time."

Most students have the same locker for three years until they become seniors, at which point they are moved to "senior hallway." Melanie Wang, a sophomore, states, "Having a senior hallway is a good idea because it's easier to find people if the occasion calls for it."

Lockers serve many purposes - from catching up on the homework from the night before, to hanging out with friends - but one thing is for sure, they are a part of Dayton's everyday life and hold not only books, but many memories.

Jordan Lee Fish

*I witnessed a beautiful soul leave this world
Date back to presence in time of care-free days
When the earth revolved either way
A sole creator put all his effort into this one child
More than worthy of an untouchable presence
But he let himself be touched
And indirectly caused the wind to blow
And the world revolved either way - Alan Steinberg*

Jordan Lee Fish was a life taken far too soon, yet a legend that lives on forever. Everyone who knew Jordan loved him, and for those who didn't still wished they did. Although short, his life and spirit touched many lives, and his laugh could make anyone smile. As we graduate, we wish Jordan could be here with us, but he remains in our minds, and surely in our hearts. We throw our hats up in celebration of Jordan's life and all the friendships made. Because of him, we have learned to cherish the memories, to love one another, to appreciate life and to live it to its fullest... and we will never forget to always smile for Jordan.

Mr. Fabiano, Dayton's favorite Italian teacher, has been teaching here at Dayton and has also coached boys soccer at Dayton for 19 years. Before his long run at Dayton, Fabs taught at Arts High in Newark, St. Joseph's, and Madison High School; however, he loves it most here at Dayton.

While working at Dayton, he's seen a lot happen over the years. "The staff has gotten a lot younger," he stated. As for the student body, he feels nothing has changed. "Students are students," he claims.

Mr. Fabiano always knew he was going to teach, but he didn't know what subject interested him the most. Originally he planned on majoring in history and minoring in French. However, it wasn't until his sophomore year that his language teacher encouraged him to study poetry and literature, which would later inspire him to teach Italian. He feels that it's very important to take a language so one can "understand interrelations with other people to understand what they are saying."

If Fabs had a chance of pursuing another career, he didn't have to think twice. He claims he would like to become the President of the United States, be the National soccer coach for the Italian team, or become a chef. We're just happy he chose teaching. - Julie Palermo

Getting to Know Fabs

Getting to Know Mrs. Rollis

Mrs. Rollis, formerly known as Ms. Tuma, has been teaching English at Jonathan Dayton for the past two years. She says she wanted to teach since the age of five, because she wanted to give back to her students what she never had in school. She knew right away she wanted to teach high school students and started out as a math major in college, but was torn between majoring in English or Math. In the end, English won her over.

She started here at Jonathan Dayton High School, the high school where she had attended and had also substituted. When an English position became available, she was hired.

She teaches her students that there are more to books than words. There is a deeper meaning that the author is trying to convey to the reader. She says that Grendel is her favorite book to read with her students, "because it is the biggest challenge." When asked if she could add any book to the curriculum, she said Paradise Lost by John Milton. She claims, "It is the core of English literature."

In addition, Mrs. Rollis also teaches SAT prep, which is a class designed to help students prepare for the ever-treacherous SATs. There are 500 words that may be used on the verbal section of the test, and her goal is to make sure her students are familiar with most of them, not only in preparation for the test, but for life.

Regardless of the class, her students always go home at the end of the day having learned something new. Mrs. Rollis is a great asset to our school. ~ Lisa Genovese

Getting to Know Mrs. Mandel

Mrs. Mandel, a new teacher at JDHS, has brought not only her style, but also her outgoing personality to make students enjoy learning. Coming to JDHS and meeting the students and teachers truly made the transition of coming to a new school much easier for her. She managed to get along with everyone very well.

Being the intelligent and exciting person she is, Mrs. Mandel attended college at the glamorous Penn State because of the fun campus life and because of its great math program. She studied math and soon decided to become a math teacher. Although her father was a huge influence on her decision to become a math teacher, it was her high school math teacher who had the biggest impact on her. "If it weren't for my math teacher, I would not have majored in math. In terms of helping students and implementing those who really liked math made me want to follow in her footsteps," said Mrs. Mandel.

She chose to become a certified math teacher for high school students because she felt that "high school where a lot of students give up in math." She wanted to teach the students that it's not difficult and math can be fun to learn.

As far as her working conditions are concerned, Mrs. Mandel's preference is to work with smaller classes rather than larger ones. "I am able to interact more one-on-one with my kids," said Mrs. Mandel.

Whether a class of 15 or 30, Mrs. Mandel makes sure that her students always feel as if they are receiving individualized attention. If you haven't had Mrs. Mandel yet, you will. And if not, she can be found walking down the hallway with a smile on her face wearing the hottest trends! - Lindsay Orenstein

Getting to Know Miss Saladino

I love Miss Saladino, but she wouldn't take a picture with me!

This is Miss Saladino's first year at Jonathan Dayton teaching physical education and health. Although this is only her first year, she claims teaching is one of her favorite things to do. "If I can come to work every day and have it be something that I love then that's all that I would want in life." She also likes being able to feel like she's making a difference in someone's life in any way that she can.

Miss Saladino's four years spent attending this high school not so long ago were her most memorable moments of her life. When she was put in the position to choose where she wanted to teach, she couldn't think of anywhere else but Jonathan Dayton. Not only is Dayton close to her home, but more importantly, she knew Dayton was a great school for physical education and credits that to her very own gym teacher. "My high school physical education teacher influenced me the most to become a teacher. She taught me so much about physical fitness."

Having been inspired by her teacher, Miss Saladino plans to pass on her love for fitness to her students. We are lucky to have her as a Dayton staff member. - Stephanie Luciano

National Honor Society

Honoring the Winners of the Game

By Ilana Gutman and Erica Sperber

High school students work their entire high school career to gain acceptance into college. One club which rewards students for their perpetual hard work is the National Honor Society.

National Honor Society is an organization in which juniors and seniors who have a grade point average of 3.75 or higher have the preliminary qualification to be inducted into this prestigious society. In addition to grades, students who are eligible also need to exhibit exemplary facets in "outstanding leadership ability, high character, and participate in service opportunity," says Ms. Westerhold, the club's advisor of four years.

"I enjoy being a new member of the National Honor Society because I feel as if my hard work finally paid off," claims Michelle Rittweger, a senior who was inducted this year. There was a beautiful induction ceremony assembled by the club's board: President Mike Levy, Vice President Deliya Gulchina, Secretary Catherine Loschiavo, and Historian Melissa Bookbinder.

Besides the honor of being a member of National Honor Society, the club members voluntarily participate in tutoring middle or high school students. The 18 current members and 37 new inductees will hopefully carry on the legacy of this club.

Everyone knows that Mrs. Delikaris's room is always filled with the most artistic students in our school, especially during a National Art Honor Society meeting. The National Art Honor Society consists of the most artistic and highly motivated students who are selected due to having a B average in art.

These members not only work on projects in school, but they also work outside of school together, from showing off their art work in the Kings Supermarket windows to painting hopscotch on the pavement at Walton School for the younger kids. This year the students also "contributed to the NAEA Hurricane Katrina Recovery Fund to benefit uninsured and underinsured schools in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama."

The National Art Honor Society has weekly meetings to work on their individual projects, their community projects, and their portfolios for college. Also "students are encouraged to work on projects that have personal meaning to them," according to Mrs. Delikaris. They also put out their new art work in the showcases all around the school, gleefully giving the hallways artistic flair for all students to enjoy.

VOLUNTEER CLUB

The Helping Bulldog

The Volunteer Club is synonymous for its generosity and is a club for those who truly want to make a difference. Through their love of helping and inspiring others, Volunteer Club members have made huge differences in their communities and have changed the lives of many.

"You have to come into this with the attitude that it's up to us to make a difference and show people that beauty is right there in front of them. All they have to do is open their eyes and truly look," stated member Rita Huber. Through their numerous fund-raisers, members have been able to raise money for aids and other diseases that affect millions world wide causing massive numbers of casualties.

The volunteers give up their free time to be part of an on growing feeling of duty: duty to one's self, duty to one's beliefs, and most importantly, duty to one's community. "It's hard work but in the end we have served a true purpose and that's really worth all of the time and hard work in the world," claims Rita.

Extra-curricular activities are great ways to do good deeds, hang out with friends, and have fun. One club that epitomizes all those activities is Volunteer Club. Led by co-presidents Melissa Bookbinder and Deliya Gulchina, more than a quarter of the students are active members in the club.

In Volunteer Club, students raise money for various charities, help out with activities such as the Tomorrow's Children Fund Picnic, the Special Olympics, and organize numerous Senior Citizen Breakfasts. However, for these students, the volunteering does not stop when the club meetings end. Many students volunteer outside of school. "I think a lot of people would partake if we went to a Soup Kitchen," said Dori Strober. For Dori and many other students, they have a plethora of ideas about what other activities the club can do. "Any way I can help, I want to help," said Dori.

Students enjoy volunteering for these worthy causes because they can spend time with their friends while helping others. Ilana Gutman, a senior, said it best. "I joined the club because all my friends are in it. But after my first activity, I felt really good helping others."

The co-presidents are always open to suggestions. Last year the club raised over two thousand dollars for the Tomorrow's Children Fund. The volunteers have high hopes to raised even more money for the various charities.

"Make all your friends join the club, we need to keep it going." Said Dori. Without the help of the entire student body the club will cease to exist. "Get out there and go volunteer. It is a great cause."

STUDENT COUNCIL

Each September, students of Jonathan Dayton vote on who they feel will best represent the student body, and thus a student council is formed. The Student Council is responsible for listening to students' ideas, and making the school year unforgettable. The Student Council Executive Board consists of Advisor Mary Cokeing, President Mickey Stromeyer, Vice President Sarah Suffir, Recording Secretary Yakentha Cadet, and Treasurer Elizabeth Rodriguez. Each month all representatives from each grade meet with the Executive Board to discuss upcoming activities such as King of Hearts, Spirit Week, and the Homecoming dance. "The members of Student Council really worked hard to put together the Homecoming dance, and everyone enjoyed it. It was the most successful dance in four years," says senior Meghan Gardner.

This year, Student Council hosted Battle of the Bands in honor of Stacey Ritter, and an Open Mic night, both new and successful events.

The 2005 2006 Executive Board worked diligently to make this school year memorable. "Being on Student Council is one of the most rewarding experiences. It gave me the opportunity to work with amazing people and an awesome advisor. It's nice knowing that I helped to create memories that will last forever," says third-year member Nicole Papazaglou.

MATH LEAGUE

Putting Together the Pieces of the Puzzle

Math League competitions are held in the library every last Tuesday of the month throughout the year. The students are given thirty-minute tests consisting of six problems. "You just go take a test in the library," comments Alyssa Cariani. But it's more than that. The tests evaluate students' minds with critical-thinking problems. The first two problems start off easy, then the next two are moderate, and the last two are hard. The problem-solving skills range from algebra to pre-calculus. Students from any math class can take these tests, and calculators are allowed.

The students compete against each other to get the highest scores to form a team for competitions against others in the state. "It's fun to test your brain with these sorts of questions. Then you see how you actually do you learn new ways of thinking outside the box," states Bianca Rhodes. Students enjoy challenging their minds and will continue to in Math League here at Dayton for many years to come.

SCIENCE LEAGUE

Creepy Crawlers

Science League is one of the greatest clubs in any high school experience. It opens up opportunities for young adults to excel in science-related topics and even further their potential career in any one of the sciences that is included in the challenging setting of competition.

Science League is based on a series of four tests that covered over the months of January through April. Preparation is the easy part. Students can prepare in a variety of ways. The topics for each monthly test are posted several months prior to the first test, so students know which specific topics to review. Teachers, who act as coaches in the various subject areas, have sample tests from previous years which they can give to students. Some teachers have review sessions after school to help students prepare for the tests, which leads to one of the most important things that aspiring Science Leaguers would like to know. Where does all this action take place?

According to Mr. Gula, who is the head advisor of Science League, Dayton is assigned to "Area 16" in the state, which includes 4-5 high schools in our area. Last year Arthur L. Johnson, Cranford, Elizabeth, Linden, and Mother Seton all participated in Area 16. "Students get to travel to other schools and compete against other students who are also interested in science," is, according to Mr. Gula, the purpose of Science League. Each month the test is held at one of the schools in the "Area 16" competition and last year Dayton hosted the test for April.

The tests vary in difficulty based on the subject that ranges from the Biology tests levels one and two containing 80 multiple choice questions to the Chemistry and Physics tests, which have 25 multiple choice questions. A wide range of topics in Biology, Chemistry, and Physics are covered on each test.

The first test in January covers the type of material that is usually reviewed during the first several months of the school year. The following tests spanning from February to April usually cover additional topics which are, again, made available to students and coaches.

One of the biggest questions most students have is what happens if a student actually wins? "For the student who wins every month, I usually post the results on the TV with the help of the TV production class," says Mr. Gula. At the end of the Science League year, the top ten percent in the schools in the state are given a plaque or medals of achievement.

So why join Dayton's Science League? What can it do for a Dayton student? Well, it can open up new horizons to young students who enjoy participating in science related activities and who also enjoy teamwork. "It teaches the students how to use their brains as well as good study habits that they can use through out their high school as well as pursuing other academic careers," says Mr. Gula.

Medical Careers Club

By Ashley Gomes

In the 2005-2006 school year here at Jonathan Dayton High School, Medical Careers Club was a huge success. President Maria Inneo and board members Adam Hirst and Lam Nguyen were joined by Brandon Stern-Charles, Nick Fiorenza, Sharon Shiekorn, Rena Ostry, Ben Preston, and several other members for short meetings that were held one Monday every month to discuss everything from how to donate money they had raised to planning their annual visit to Overlook Hospital around the holiday season. Mrs. Ornovitz, the club's advisor, did her best to keep the students focused on one of the club's important goals of reaching out into the community.

This club also helps to increase student awareness of career opportunities in Medical and Allied Health fields. Club members were exposed to many aspects of the medical profession as they raised funds for medical research. The fund raising events held throughout the year raised over two thousand dollars, which was donated to the Milan Project. "We're trying to focus on more service projects and raising more money for research like we have in past years," says Mrs. Ornovitz, who has been the club advisor for many years. "In past years we've seen real live surgeries. Hopefully we'll be able to get to see them again in the future." Maria Inneo and her board members did so much this year to help the community around them, and hopefully future members will see the same kind of inspirational success.

Mock Trial

The Rule-Makers of the Game

By Erica Sperber

Mock Trial is a contest sponsored by the New Jersey State Bar Association to encourage awareness of and participation in state law and the legal profession. It is a great way for anyone who has even a remote interest in law or the judicial system to explore the careers of being a defense or prosecution lawyer. Also, participants can be witnesses aiding in the cases for their side's behalf. "Mock Trial is an extremely challenging experience which encompasses higher level thinking skills, builds group dynamic, team spirit and camaraderie," said Mrs. Truger, the advisor of Mock Trial.

The JDHS Mock Trial team consisted of ten student participants, one advisor, and one judge from the Elizabeth Courthouse. The ten students were all new faces for the Mock Trial team, but Mrs. Truger had high hopes for her novice team. "We have all new people this year, but I still think we can do well at the competition." The Mock Trial experience culminates with a competition in February against other schools in the state. This is the true test of the team's hard work.

The students use a prepared murder or civil trial to design questions, opening and closing statements, as well as practice skills such as quick thinking and tactics to attempt to win their case. "This experience is beneficial for life, a great way to learn about law, have fun with new and old friends and enjoy a ruthless competition," said Nicole Wainline, a junior participant.

Mock Trial team was an incredible experience for all participants, and their accomplishments in competition were impressive. Court dismissed!

By Alyssa Cariani

JSA, or the Junior State of America, is the largest student-run organization in America. The main purpose of this club is to get high school students involved in government and politics of the modern day.

The members of this club attend weekly meetings after school conducted by "Marycokeing" to debate a wide range of topics including the never-ending debate of which elementary school is best (Caldwell or Sandmeier), and whether or not it is moral to make time for silent prayer in school. When the students aren't debating, they're planning fundraisers to collect enough money to go to their state conventions.

These future politicians go to three state conventions a year consisting of JSA chapters from numerous schools. In the fall, the trip to Cherry Hill, New Jersey consisted of various debates scheduled throughout the weekend. The winter trip brought the JSA members all the way to our nation's capital where students participated in a mock-Congress and passed bills in the same fashion as the real American Congress. In the spring, JSA traveled to Philadelphia to take part in elections for the upcoming year. The three trips allowed club members to feel like they are actually involved in American politics and government.

Alex Grey, Vice President of JSA, decided to join this club because, "It's interesting and a lot of fun. You learn how to meet new people in a network and improve upon public speaking skills."

His favorite thing to do at JSA meetings is to participate in the intense debates that take place because "they are informal and fun."

If Alex could change one thing about the club, he would change, "The way we vote using block voting. In other words, the larger JSA chapters get most of the say in the spring elections." Unfortunately, Dayton is a small school and, therefore, there is an imbalance of voting power.

Alex doesn't see a future in politics but who knows, maybe we'll see Alex Blum (JSA's president), or another member of JSA, on the ballots in a future presidential election.

Model U.N.

By Lucas Biebelberg & Matt Butler

"Model U.N. is a club that does scaled down versions of what the real United Nations does," claims sophomore Adam Frank.

Model club is only in its third year of existence, but it is escalating in popularity each year. Model U.N. has one official meeting a year hosted by Yale University where schools from around the world join together to discuss "real world" problems and possible solutions for them. "This club is just as much about politics as it is solving problems, so anyone interested in either of the two should join this club," stated Adam Frank.

Model U.N. is a growing club gaining more and more interest as the years go on. The Model U.N. hopes with the newfound growth that they will become another one of Dayton's prestigious clubs in the near future.

Amnesty International

The Amnesty International Club was established by Anna Batler, who conducted a project in the Gifted and Talented Program. She had a deep passion for human rights, and believed that the idea of justice should be exposed to the student body. Amnesty International is now organized by Barbara Trueger, President Carly Athan, Vice President Michael Warman, and Treasurer Sarah Suffir, who try to inspire students to reach out to those in need and reap the benefits of selfless service. The goal of Amnesty International is to "Open the eyes of students here in high school to world wide issues," according to Barbara Trueger.

Students meet once a month to coordinate volunteer activities and fund-raisers to help support people in need. In the past, the club has organized petitions and letters to save people from unfair punishment, and eventually helped vindicate a woman who was sentenced to be stoned to death.

This year Amnesty International has already sold enough entertainment books to adopt a tsunami child, and wrote hundreds of consoling letters to victims of Katrina. "The feedback and success of the club is what keeps us motivated and active," stated senior Sarah Suffir.

Amnesty International is a club that continues to raise awareness around the community and world. Mrs. Trueger said that the most rewarding part about directing the club is "seeing the students become politically aware and active in a world far beyond the Jonathan Dayton community - and playing a role in a larger picture." - By Sarah Suffir

JDSERT

JDSERT provides first response care at Dayton until a first aid squad can arrive. The program is supervised by FMG teacher Mr. Voorhees; however, when Mr. Voorhees is not available, Senior Stuart Maslow is in charge of the team.

JDSERT is called upon on any occasion. "The team is called upon for accidents ranging from simple bleeding to life threatening events such as cardiac arrest or seizures," Stuart explained.

On a daily basis, two to four students are on call. The team communicates through walkie talkies that the main office and the nurse has. When an accident happens, they are immediately paged. Each member has access to equipment that can help those in need, such as various bandages, splints, neck braces, a backboard, an AED, oxygen tanks, as well as protection for the team, which includes gloves and masks.

JDSERT is an essential program at Dayton. Students here can rest assured knowing that they are in good hands!

Alternatives Club/ REBEL

REBEL stands for Reaching Everyone By Exposing Lies. This group works throughout the year to teach kids about the dangers of tobacco and students on the elementary school level about problems that come with smoking. "REBEL has more of an impact on the county and state level than it does on Dayton," said Nicole Corigliano.

Alternatives Club, a club designed to give teens activities to do besides drugs, is still active in the school and some people are dual members. Many who join REBEL feel the same way as Nicole. "I joined because I was frustrated watching teens become addicted." Members really help to open the eyes of the community and help turn teens and in the right direction. - By Kathryn Stigliano

Quiz Bowl

Quiz Bowl is club that is a very intellectual. Members must know be very knowledgeable in categories like science, sports, history, math and mythology. This year there were 14 people committed to the team. As many as four teams compete in a competition against other high schools. Some of the star returning players are Ben Green, Noah Peyser and Seth Benzel.

Quiz Bowl is a great and fun club for incoming freshman that exercises the mind. Quiz Bowl also helps one in classes. The kids on the team aspire to win trophies and awards with their knowledge. Peer Leadership

A good peer leader is someone who is responsible. He or she must also be willing to help underclassmen and interact well with peers. Kyle Sealy has all of these important leadership roles, and therefore serves as a perfect peer leader.

This is Kyle's first year being a peer leader.

This year the peer leaders helped with Freshman Orientation the day before the school began as well as many other school-related events. According to Kyle, "You have to nominate yourself, then Mrs. Sista and Miss McCauley, the teachers who run it, ask your other teachers if they think you're qualified."

Kyle is also proud of being a peer leader. "I get to make underclassmen feel more comfortable about their new school, plus it also looks good on college resumes." With peer leaders like Kyle, how could this year not have been such a big success?

- By Jolie Marrin & Heather Kerr

Although fun in the past, many more positive changes occurred in Spanish Club this year. Both the members and the new advisor, Mrs. Valvano, couldn't wait for the new activities and events to begin this past school year.

Mrs. Valvano, the new advisor, had a lot planned for the club this year. "I wanted group members to take a trip to the theatre and to do more things revolving around Hispanic culture at the meetings." Unlike last year, Mrs. Valvano "planned to have meetings more often than in the past." In addition, since so many members signed up to be on the Board of the club this year, there was a new and improved election process requiring each candidate to make a speech in Spanish explaining why he or she should be elected a member of the Board.

From the students' perspectives, the Spanish Club members couldn't wait for the year to begin filled with new and exciting activities. Senior Erica Sperber, a member all four years at Dayton, claims "the one trip the students take each year is my favorite part." She - more importantly - joined because she thought it was a fun way to hang out with her friends and be involved in Hispanic culture. "I heard about the club from my older brother and Senora forced me to join." Her favorite President Ilana Gutman, Vice President Adam Hirst, and Secretary Dori Strober are excited to be on the board.

Spanish Club

Take a Wack at the Pinata

Spanish food is tacos and she was happy to eat them once again this year on the trip to the Mexican restaurant.

Erica's not the only one that can recall fond memories - every member can recall a favorite moment spent while participating in a Spanish Club activity. The club members this year were extremely eager and excited for a great year, and thoroughly enjoyed exploring the Hispanic culture through this wonderful club.

Italian Club

Bocce Ball

This year the Italian Club had big plans. Mr. Fabiano and the officers of the club made this year's Italian Club the best ever. As always there were many things to look forward to as a member of this club, such as the Basket Auction, where the Italian Club always has a basket filled with wonderful Italian goodies as well as the Easter Basket Raffle.

For most members of the club, their favorite part of the being in the club is the annual trip. Katie MacDonnell said, "The trip is always fun; great food, great entertainment, great people." In the past, Italian Club has taken good trips, but Mr. Fabiano made this year's trip top all the rest. The club went to dinner in the city and saw an Italian opera.

Italian Club offers students the opportunity to learn about the Italian culture and have a good time. When asked why she enjoys Italian Club so much Sarah Suffir responded, "Because Mr. Fabiano is the coolest Italian man ever!" Everyone else agrees. Italian Club is molto bene! - By Kathryn Stigliano

French Club

If you want to learn about French culture, art, life, and cuisine, then Jonathon Dayton's French Club is the place to be. Mrs. Moscovitz makes learning fun while creating activities and planning new trips. This year she and her club members went to French films, museums, and restaurants.

"We try to promote French culture. We hope to have some people speak to us about French baking, about the importance of studying language, French fashion, cultural trips, French movies, and holiday parties," claims Mrs. Moscovitz. "I try to make it fun and its fun to have everyone get together."

This year's officers are Dalila Boclin as President, Allison Dmiszewick as Vice President, Alex Fish as Treasurer, Alyssa Cariani as Secretary, Marisa Proto as Historian, and Brooke Schuckman as Fundraising Chairperson.

The officers are chosen by elections. Important qualities that an officer must possess include, "Reliability, honesty, and diligence. And I want them to care about what they're doing. Have them be leaders instead of me and take responsibility," replied Mrs. Moscovitz.

Mrs. Moscovitz's most memorable moment is when she took the students to see the Phantom of the Opera.

There was a new student that didn't speak any English who was from Costa Rica. When he saw the play, he was in shock. He had never been to a theater before. Naturally, he was dumbfounded. "I felt like I really made a difference in a student's life," she said with a grin.

With the help of the advisor Mrs. Moscovitz, students in French Club will leave this year better educated about French culture, and experienced in French life. -By Joanna Podberezniak & Alyssa Grobarz

TV STUDIO

Every morning, Jonathan Dayton students are greeted by their peers for the morning announcements. Students who have learned the tricks of the television trade from Mr. A and new TV teacher Mr. Coward talk about sports highlights, the weather for the day, upcoming school events, and changes in the routine school schedule. But of course, students have to learn how to operate the equipment before they can get on the air.

Advanced TV student and senior Joe Furnaguera has taken the class three times since his sophomore year. He said the class is not only interesting, but fun, too. "When I watch TV, I understand how everything is being done and how to work all of that equipment. It's very cool."

Intro. students learn the terminology, as well as how to work the cameras and the control room. Advanced students can work on all of the equipment, do projects, and go live on the air for announcements. Students take TV year after year; it's definitely a "must-take" elective at Dayton. According to sophomore Matt Butler, "TV's good stuff!"

Ski Club

By Lisa Horowitz & Angie Heiba

Ski Club is back at Jonathan Dayton High School. It was established last year by senior Alex Peyser and teachers Miss Bellarosa and Mr. Krupp. Because of Ski Club's success last year, students worked hard to bring it back for another season. Dayton students were to be extremely eager to get out and hit the slopes on their skis and snowboards. "It's a good way to spend your time in the winter. Better than just sitting around the house," says senior Nicole Diamant.

Ski Club is for anyone looking to have a good time. It does not matter if you look like a professional on the slopes, or if you have never skied a day in your life. Ilana Gutman spoke fondly about her memories of last year's trips. "I had so much fun and I'm glad this club is back for my senior year."

Literary Magazine

By Julie Nittolo & Carina Silva

The Literary Magazine is a way for students and faculty at Jonathan Dayton to express themselves through poetry, stories, essays and art. These amazing pieces of work get published in the magazine and offer many learning opportunities for those who submit work. "We provide an outlet for the under-represented artistic community," says Mike Levy.

The Lit Mag is advised by Scott Shallcross, an English and Creative Writing teacher here at JDHS. There is no other person more suitable to advise the Lit Mag than him because of his dedication to his work and to being a mentor to his students. Along with Mr. Shallcross, the Editors Dalila Boclin, Mike Levy, and Anna D'Achille, as well as Design Editor Charline Tetiyevsky, meet weekly to go through all the work that has been submitted and pick out the pieces that showcase the talent that is so often overlooked at Dayton. "It's all about saying something meaningful and being honest. The Literary Magazine is a great way for your voice to be heard," says Editor Anna D'Achille.

PEP BAND

Pep Band this year was a huge success. Despite the fact that the Dayton kids were part of the co-op with Brearley, they seemed to bring a spirited and appropriately peppy mood to the existing Brearley Marching Band.

"Two words," member Noah Peyser - a dedicated member of the Concert Band and Music Department at Dayton - stated with a grin as he lovingly described his peers. "Band Geeks." The Pep Band members fall under no other title.

The five or six Dayton members spent their Friday nights being bussed to Brearley to practice marching routines and to learn new pieces that were required curriculum for Brearley students. The half-time marches at the weekly football games served to better the students, regardless of their level of musicianship

"I guess you could consider each game a performance," stated Noah, "And each performance obviously adds experience to your resume, which is always good. And it boosted our sight-reading skills because we didn't rehearse the music until we met up with the Brearley kids a few hours before the games."

The Pep Band was directed by Mr. Ronald Slate, who helped successfully blend the Brearley and Dayton bands together. He enjoyed himself this year, but he's excited to begin his own Pep Band next year when the co-op ends; the students can't wait to support their own team once again!

« THE BAND

Musical Chairs

Concert Band is a wonderful way for high school students to dedicate their time to something they love - music. "Music is a communal force," says senior Ben Krupit, "it brings people together and I love being a part of something like that." Each day, band director Ronald State helps his students learn and perform a wide variety of music, ranging from baroque and renaissance to pop, jazz, and more modern pieces.

The band students are able to perform in two concerts each year which are free and open to the public. The concerts take place in the winter and spring. In addition to the two public concerts, the band enters a program called "Music in the Parks," where students travel to a theme park to perform for judges, as well as to compete against numerous other high schools. Things looked good this year and according to Ben Krupit, "The band was strong," he said.

Even though he plays several instruments, Ben Krupit enjoys playing the trumpet the most because, "that's where I got my start as a musician." He plans on majoring in music education. He credits some of his dedication to music to his many years in Concert Band. - By Jodie Cottage & Alyssa Cariani

THE » CHOIR

Name That Tune!

This year, a brand new perspective brought with it a whole different feel to Dayton's Vocal Music Department. Mr. Jared Moskowitz began this year with a completely different focus and teaching methods, and, after a short transition period, the students began to develop into a choir with a different style. Now, instead of the two periods of choir singing different sets of songs, they both sing the same set of songs and end each concert with the same song, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

"This year has been interesting, but extremely successful nonetheless," stated the enthralled choir director with a smile. "It was a difficult transition, but we made it work," said Senior tenor Nick Paolino on the same subject.

Another change made this year was that the choir went to Six Flag's version of "Music in The Parks," a program in which the students are judged by professionals and compete against other high school choirs. The students absolutely loved the competition and performed extremely well. Overall, this year's choir, despite the changes, was a strong success. - By Chris Mattice

Dawg Print

As long as Jonathan Dayton has been around, there has been a student newspaper. From gossip back in the early days, to cars of the month now, The Dawg Print has gone through a few face lifts. This year is no different with more changes added to the well-loved paper.

"This year we changed the set-up a bit. Its news, opinions, features, pop culture, and sports," says Editor-in-Chief Dalila Boclin. "We want the newspaper to really be a student newspaper."

The rest of the staff includes Opinion Editors Adam Hirst and Catherine LoSchiavo, News Editor Deliya Gulchina, Pop Culture and Art Editor Maria Inneo, Features Editor Melissa Bookbinder, and Sports Editor Jake Floyd. "We want the newspaper to really be a student newspaper."

Putting out four issues a year, The Dawg Print gives us everything from satire to seriousness. But Dalila doesn't do it alone. "We delegate responsibilities among each other. We all contribute ideas for the central theme, edit articles and write articles. As Editor-in-Chief, I especially keep everything together and I do most of the layout and polishing tasks."

Providing the school with news and fun, The Dawg Print has lived up to being a student newspaper. — By Jake Del Mauro

Key Club

Above: Key Club Executive Board Members.

This year the officers of Key Club are sure to make a difference. President Alex Fish, Vice President Carissa Clark, Secretary Mike Worman, and Treasurer Ashley Gomes stepped up to the plate promising better and more support for the community. Mr. Tedeseo, the club advisor, has been nothing but supportive of the organization and it's honorable cause — just one twenty-minute meeting a week has been able to better the community. This year, Alex is determined to get clubbers more involved. From organizing visits to the Milburn Day School to the holiday food delivery, Alex had his hands full this year.

The main thing that Key Club is designed to do is to help students become closer and make a difference in the community around them. "People think this club isn't about anything. Granted we've had a hard couple of years starting it up again, but this year we're going to pull our weight and make a bigger difference," says Kylie Karp, a sophomore and dedicated member of the club. "I think the biggest thing about the club is the satisfaction you get from helping out. It makes you appreciate what you have," says Ashley Gomes, who has been in the club since her freshman year. "It's such a great experience. I had such a wonderful time helping other people out this year!" — By Ashley Gomes

By Yakentha Cadet & Anna D'Achille

This year's yearbook classes had an incredible time creating a book to capture memories of the 2005-2006 school year. The classes also learned about the fundamentals in the interviewing process and journalistic writing. "This yearbook class was successful because everyone worked together to make a yearbook that incorporated the entire student body," stated Ilana Gutman.

Besides working on the yearbook, the students have learned about the importance of current events and being aware of the latest happenings. In the process students also improved their writing, journalistic and critiquing skills. As a fun unit, the class also participated in reviewing local restaurants, movies, and books. "It was really enjoyable," said Katie MacDonnell, one of the two Photo Editors of the yearbook.

The yearbook highlights the major and minor sports, events, clubs, and activities that were held during the 2005-2006 school year. "We definitely had to go to all games and events to make sure that the yearbook pages were filled with the pictures that were needed to capture all activities that went on," says Ilana. This yearbook is filled with the blue and orange spirit, and with the hard work of a great staff and yearbook advisor, Mrs. Chomko, the yearbook classes have created a wonderful memory for all to enjoy. – Yakentha Cadet

Fall Cheerleading

GO! FIGHT! WIN!

BY HEATHER KERR

"Go! Team! Go!" Here at Jonathan Dayton High School, fall cheerleading is a very important sport. Every day after school eleven girls showcase their school spirit during boys and girls soccer games and sometimes football games.

The squad consisted of two seniors - Captains Linda Cinicolo and Jaclyn Laurencelle - four juniors - Lauren Haliczzer, Amber Crosby, Hannah Vandermeiren, and Kelsey Mason - and five freshmen - Jolie Marrin, Julie Salant, Alyssa Grobarz, Heather Kerr and Kimberly Alonso.

There is no question that the squad this year was different from the squad last year, but that isn't necessarily a bad thing. "I can't compare this year to last year," said Captain Linda Cinicolo.

With a new squad of cheerleading recruits under their belt the girls were ready and excited for Winter Cheerleading.

STARS OF MADDEN

BY ZACH SILVERMAN

A new year at Jonathan Dayton brought with it a new season of football. Seniors were prepared for the last high school games they would ever play and the school's spirit had never been higher. In addition, Dayton finally has its own football team.

This year the Dayton Bulldogs had their own Junior Varsity team, which consisted of freshmen through juniors. With new coaches and enthusiastic players they were ready for a good season. "The new head coach is really strict, really really strict, but he is also smart," Alex Silverman says.

Although Dayton finally had their own team, the seniors of Jonathon Dayton still played Brearley. The graduates of 2006 marked the end of the co-op program with Brearley along with their high school football years.

The Brearley Bears started off with another fantastic season, finally beating New Providence! "The team was extremely happy after our win against New Providence, in particular the seniors. "We had lost to them four times in three years, and to finally beat them during my senior year was just an amazing feeling, a feeling that won't be experienced again," says senior captain Jake Floyd.

The Bears finished their exciting season with a record of 10-2 and as MVC Champions.

BOYS FOOSEBALL SOCCER

Dayton boys soccer had a very strong team this year. It was led by captains Dima Tereshchuck, Fred Vilasco, and David Sauerhoff. The team had a strong defense and an incredible offense. The Bulldogs could not have been as victorious without their hard work and diligent practice.

The team's biggest rival was Brearley, who provided exciting games and great competition. To prepare, Dayton players practiced a lot and didn't mind all of the effort they put into their team and their sport. As Mike Dubiel says, "Practice makes perfect."

The team was led to victory by Coach Fabiano and was assisted by Matt Schachtel, who began helping halfway through the season. The team improved greatly throughout the year, and finished the season with a record of 14-15-3. Overall, it was another great season for the Dayton boys soccer team. - by Jesse Galinkin

Girls Soccer

BY LINDSAY ORENSTEIN & BITZY RODRIGUEZ

The Dayton Girls Soccer team came together this year to make the 2006 fall season a memorable one. The team was led by Captain Alexia Moriello with the help of five seniors: Kathryn Stigliano, Elizabeth Rodriguez, Katelyn Viverito, Marisa Proto, and Romina Okseniuk. Although the team had a handful of solid seniors, the underclassmen really pulled their weight this season. "The freshmen really came through this year. They played hard and were rewarded with playing time. It was nice to see them on the field," says senior Kathryn Stigliano.

The junior varsity and varsity teams practiced everyday without any complaints. "We actually enjoyed practices and being with Kindler again made us laugh the entire time," claims Allison Schachtel, "and Mr. Cozza really pushed us to be our best."

This group of girls had fun each time they stepped on the field. "It didn't matter if we won or lost, we always had a good time," says senior Bitzy Rodriguez. "Our game against Brearley was the most memorable. We practiced hard, played hard, and it really paid off when we won 3-0," Rodriguez beamed.

There is no question that the senior girls will be missed next year. "I can't picture practices without them," says Allison. Although this year's seniors made their mark on the field this season, we're positive the junior girls will fill their cleats with ease next year.

Volleyball

"HOT POTATO"

BY ANGIE HEIBA

Dayton Volleyball had a great start this season. With the loss of eight seniors two years before, last year's season has been called "The Rebuilding Season". This year Coach Wells decided to have four captains, Nicole Corigliano, Angie Heiba, Bianca Rhodes, and Nicole Waknine, "each with a unique quality that, [combined], makes our team strong." These four captains along with seniors Stephanie Santos, Ilana Gutman, Melissa Guida, Nicole Diamant and Juniors Janine Kahoonei and Alyssa Cariani have dedicated their summer to volleyball league to bring their team back on track. Since most of the girls have been playing volleyball together for the past three years, there is great chemistry on the court.

Despite their less-than-perfect record, the volleyball players gave 110% on the court each game. "We have faced challenges this season, some ups and downs, but despite everything, we have come through on the top," says captain Corigliano. Some of their biggest competitors included Union Catholic, Rahway and Johnson, but the Dayton Volleyball team was not afraid of their intimidating spikers; instead they played their hearts out and left the court with pride.

The seniors this year can now leave knowing that they turned "the rebuilding season" into "the winning season" and can leave knowing they have set a high expectation for future volleyball players to look up to. "This is hard for me, knowing the season is over, I've had the time of my life with these girls. We are like family, and I am going to miss them so much," said senior Ilana Gutman. These volleyball seniors think that this has been the best season yet!

GIRLS TENNIS

With almost a completely new girls tennis team, friendships and great team spirit are bound to develop. Regardless of the sport played, students tend to mix a little hard work and fun to formulate what usually leads to success. The 2005-2006-tennis team pulled together to make the fall season unforgettable.

Although it was a challenging season with all the rainouts, the eight determined girls played their best and "can only improve for next year," says doubles player, Amy Gardner. The tennis team was led by senior captains, Laryssa Lukiw and Sarah Suffir, agreed that "no matter what our record may be, we as a team were successful and victorious because we tried our hardest and improved greatly from the beginning of the season."

JANICE COHEN

Junior Janice Cohen works hard on her game and continuously strives to improve. She is a true role model of and the epitome of success for the Dayton Varsity Tennis Team.

Playing first singles was Caroline Egmituk, a freshman new to the Varsity Team. She surely worked her way up to the top of the roster and became quite an important asset to the team and future seasons. Sophomores and juniors doubles players, Margot Cottler, Carissa Clark, Janice Cohen, and Sandy Wilkenfeld, will make the future years destined to be strong.

The eight Varsity Girls enjoyed bus-rides to other schools, which were full of laughter and enthusiasm. "I will miss my girls so much, and only wish them the best of luck in future seasons," said Sarah Suffir. Regardless of the final record, the girls came to a conclusion that the season was a huge success, and agreed that this incredible experience will truly be missed, but never forgotten.

By Lucas Biebelberg

Right: Coach Zika and Coach Costello were the keys to success this year.

Below: The Dayton cross-country seniors will be greatly missed.

Cross-country has never been acknowledged as a major sport at Jonathan Dayton High School, but the 2006 season spurred the recognition of this increasingly popular sport.

Last year the Bulldog cross-country team posted a dismal 1-win season. This year, Dayton tripled their win record. Not only did they improve their record, but the Dayton cross-country team came in 4th in the Sectional meet, giving them a bid in the State Competition.

The new coaching staff consisted of boys coach Mr. Costello, and girls coach Ms. Zika; they created a tougher atmosphere during practice, and worked the boys and girls to the best of their ability.

While most practices consisted of either sprinting or long distance running that could consist of up to 10 miles a day, the cross-country team still managed to have a fun and enjoy its season.

"We wanted to create a more competitive environment. We wanted to improve our times significantly this year," claimed Coach Costello.

Due to Mr. Costello's and Ms. Zika's hard work, everybody's time improved dramatically, with most of the boys dropping their best time from last year by at least 2 minutes.

Two of Dayton's top 5 runners, Captains David Steinman and Alex Blum, lead the team both on and off the field. David came in first place against Morris Catholic posting a time of 19:20. "I worked hard all summer, and I was determined to achieve all my goals. As my dad always tells me, 'Hard work will always pay off,'" claimed David. New runner Joey Pulice came in 11th place at the Conference Meet and ran a time of 18:45.

Captains Alex Blum and Cathy Dymek, as well as the rest of the seniors, will be missed as they depart for their respective colleges. "Even though I'm leaving, I enjoyed my years on the cross-country team," stated Alex Blum.

With Mr. Costello and Miss Zika leading the team, Dayton cross-country had a great 2005-2006 season. It's a guarantee that the team will achieve even more in their future seasons!

Right: There is no way Dave was going to give up against his competition.

Right: The boys cross country team is always having fun.

Below: Deliya is ahead of her competition and has no intention to change that.

"David Steinman and Joey Pulice were the top two runners on the team this year. Joey's best time was 18:40, while David won a race for Dayton with a time of 19:20. Both took major strides in improving, and it will be interesting to see if these two can continue to get better and lead Dayton to glory throughout the next couple of years."

Dayton and Brearley came together as one team in hopes of another successful gymnastics season. Seniors Kerri Griffin and Erica Sperber led the team as captains, along with Brearley junior Lisa Madonia. This year's team consisted of seniors Kerri Griffin and Erica Sperber, juniors Jodie Cottage, Andie Sablosky, and Julie Palermo, and freshmen Shelby Saunders and Stephanie Porquin. Brearley juniors include Lisa Madonia, Mallory McElroy, Jessica Zalutko, and freshman Haley Hernandez were an important part of the team as well.

This year the team's practices moved to a gym. "There are classes and other teams that practice in the gym at the same time, so when we went to an event, we went as a team," Kerri Griffin explained.

The team also had the opportunity to host the 2005 County competition this year at Brearley. Although the team had to go through a lot of hard work and planning to host the event, they realized the moment the meet started, it would be a success. Although the team came in second, they knew that they did their best even with the illnesses that members of the team had to contend with.

Although they didn't win every meet, they knew that the season was a success, and they look forward to next year's season. —Jodie Cottage

Winter CHEERLEADING

*Go!
Fight!
Win!*

"Competition is what cheerleaders are all about. We don't only cheer on the sidelines, we compete," says Linda Cinicolo. This year's 2006 winter cheerleaders have what it takes to place top rankings at this year's competition. Jonathon Dayton cheerleaders know how to bring a crowd up with their "Go, Fight, Win" spirit and engage their crowd on how to help the bulldogs win.

Senior captain Kerri Griffin states, "Cheerleading is a skill and we learn routines and cheers that have to be in unison." These cheerleaders act as a team and take pride in teamwork. The Bulldog cheerleaders get on the court during half-time and excite the crowd with their competition routine which involves complicated stunts and dance coordinations. Yasmine Glass is sure that the squad will bring home a trophy this year because they have what it takes to out beat the regional cheerleaders in our area. "We feel that we are major competition to the other squads, especially after our killer routine that has been choreographed by an outstanding coach."

The squad had proved itself over and over again as they express their Bulldog pride throughout all of the Home Girls & Boys Basketball games. Their "Go, Fight, Win" spirit raids the air and leads the Bulldog teams to victory. Yasmine Glass says. "We have come a long way with different adjustments and different cheerleading experiences, but the squad has come together to place in this year's competition." ~ Yakentha Cadet ~

This year the 2005-2006 basketball season started out strong for the Dayton bulldogs. The two captains of the team this year were senior stud Joe Furnaguera and the young star David Steinman. "As the season progressed they turned into yet another strong team," claimed manager Lucas Biebelberg. Some of their biggest rivalries this year were against the Oratory Rams, the New Providence Pioneers, and the Brearley Bears.

Joe Furnaguera held the team together offensively and defensively and was the main focus of the team. Sophomore sensation this year is David Steinman and is the hope and future of Dayton's basketball program. He has great skills and I think could be the next 1000 point scorer. Juniors this year consist of starting point guard Danny Shabal who stated, "I think that our hard work has paid off and we can contend for a conference championship this year. Also Chris Muckle who is always stated saying "still strong still standing" which is true for him because he is the inspirational hustler of the team. Other junior players who made an impact are Mike Dubiel, Jesse Alava, Eliot Grossman and Kyle Seeley. They all had to step up there games. Senior three point shooter Jesse Galinkin always provided the team with the threat of the shot from behind the arc and helped the team with there shooting problems. A key addition to the team this year was 6 foot 2 inch York Cook who dominated the boards and was fierce on defense. Another veteran of the team was Adam Hirst who provided great leadership and ability said, "this team could do some damage in the state tournament this year."

The 2006-2007 season will be another great season to watch, despite the fact that several talented seniors are leaving. It will be fun seeing if the Bulldogs can continue their long streak of success in the upcoming seasons.

This year, the girl's basketball team, coached by Mr. Rennie and assisted by Mr. Campbell, had a great season going above and beyond what was expected of them. Surprisingly, according to junior Valerie Upton, "This year, some of the team's great talent came from some of the younger players." According to Casey Kennedy, a freshman on the team, a good basketball player is someone "who is determined, competitive, and dedicated." She also feels it takes "skill, determination, a good attitude, and the desire to work hard" in order to be successful on the court.

In addition, captains and supportive leaders Valerie Upton and Nicole Corigliano demonstrated what it meant to be determined on the court as well.

Winter Track

Dayton's winter track team had a successful season this year with the help of their coaches Miss Zika, Mr. Cozza and Mr. Kozub. Although, the team had only fifteen participants, the team's spirits were not broken. Many goals were set and great improvement since last season was demonstrated.

To help lead this team to greatness Coach Zika introduced many new strategies to aid in the team's improvement. By adding crunches, push-ups, trips to the weight room, and Saturday morning practices, team members became stronger and faster and even surpassed their personal goals. The only thing that held back the team this year was its size. "By having fewer participants, more team members were required to do events that they wouldn't normally take part in." As a result, "the team did not do as well as it could have," claims senior Catherine Dymek.

This year the team's biggest rivals were Brearley and New Providence. All in all the Dayton team won 2 meets and lost 3, which may be due to the loss of last year's seniors. "The team lost Cassie Title, Brian Tavis, and Jimmy Cottage who were all very strong and participated in a lot of events," says Catherine.

Although there were some setbacks at the start of the season, many participants made strong impacts this year. Ashley Little placed 2nd in Union county, placed 3rd at group meets, and qualified for Meet of Champions all in the shot-put category. The team also benefited with the help of Carly Athan who went from being a sprinter to the best long distance runner on the team. Some other key players were Justin Herrel, Andy Ghilino, Catherine Dymek, Alex Gray, and Mike Wallach.

Bulldog hockey, one of the most glorified sports, is making a come back this year. After a disappointing loss to Watchung Hills last winter in the Kelly Cup, the team was even more enthusiastic and prepared for the best season Dayton had seen in years. Well our goal at the start of the season was to make division playoffs, to make it to the Kelly Cup again, and also to make it to the State Championships," says Sophomore Vincent Inneo. To help persue these goals, this year's captains Rob Carrol, Matt Parman and Jimmy Guarino had nothing to offer the team but the best leadership Dayton had seen as well as the hope to pursue the Kelly Cup once again.

The defense player Jonathan Beri knew all to well what it took to keep the team in shape and ready for anything. "The main aspects of hockey that I think every player learns is to work hard, don't give up, and to have self control," says Jonathan, a junior who also played on the 2004-2005 season as a sophomore.

As the season progressed the only thing Dayton hockey players could do was work their hardest and keep pushing themselves with the help of their coaches. Dean Yak, the head coach and assistant coaches Tim Kaufers and John Perone pushed for success with this year's team. "According to Vinny, "The coaches skated us hard in practice and always worked to improve our skills to help us to become better hockey players. Not only better hockey players, but pushed us to becoming better friends with the other players and coaches on the team," says Inneo.

But what about the incoming Freshman in the years to come who desire to play Dayton hockey? "High school hockey is a big jump from playing middle school or peewee hockey. They have to skate hard to get better." Practice is the key according to Vinny. Dayton hockey is not for the faint hearted. Do the students in the years to come have what it takes to bring the Kelly Cup to Dayton and maybe even the State Championship? Bulldog hockey supporters seem to think so.

Dayton's 2005-2006 hockey season was certainly an exciting season, delivering nothing but action on, and even even sometimes off, the ice.

Aside from the bonds made, chlorine, practices, meets and bus rides are just a few things that Dayton swimmers looked forward to this season and every season. The turn out for this year's team was great, with thirty-four fantastic swimmers who were eager to dive right into the season. Lead by Senior Captains Annmarie Corcione, Maria Inneo, and Jackie Horning, and coached by Head Coach Kelly and Assistant Coach Kristin, the Dayton/Brearely swim team had a "Splashing" time this season.

This year's team was a very enthusiastic one, always cheering on their team mates. No one can destroy the bond that the seniors on this team had formed over the last few years, and it is apparent that this bond extended to junior Jodie Cottage as well. At the close of the season, junior Jodie Cottage made one thing clear to her teammates. She will certainly "miss the friendships that were created and the family atmosphere."

Wrestling

The 2005-2006 Wrestling team had one of the most victorious seasons in Dayton/Brearley history finishing with a record of 24-2, a big improvement from last year. Along with an outstanding dual match record, this group of dedicated boys clinched the conference title, as well as being Team Sectional Champions. Eight wrestlers placed within the top 6 of their weight class in the Union County Tournament. Of those eight, two were from Springfield: Matt Loffa placed 4th, while Eric DuBeau placed 6th. As for the Kenilworth members, Kenny Knapp, Joe Lospinoso, Anthony Evans, and Jesse Boyden were able to maneuver their way to being number one. Hany Elshiekh, Dan Conroy, Travis Dilts and Joey Mraz all contributed a great deal, and as a team they left with the honor of being number one in Union County.

This year the team consisted of mostly freshmen, but that didn't seem to effect the team's performance, and perhaps it even made it better. "Even though the team is stacked with freshmen, it didn't hurt the team. The freshmen are very talented and helped improve the team," says junior Jem Vigilante.

Wrestling may seem like an easy sport, but it takes a lot of preparation. Besides physical hardships, the team must also mentally prepare themselves before a match. Everyday the team arrived on the mats ready to practice by 3:15. All their determination and diligence was evident when the team was also able to crush Roselle Park twice in one season, after not having defeated them since 1971. This was a huge accomplishment for the team, coaches, and managers. "Winning against Roselle Park twice was not only the best feeling in the world, it gave the team a bigger boost of confidence for the rest of the season," says sophomore Matt Loffa.

With only one senior leaving the line-up this year, next season is expected to be just as rewarding.

Golf

Dayton's beloved Mr. Steinginga has returned after retiring last year. Why? "FORE" another amazing season of golf. The Dayton golf team spent long hours this season practicing at Crescent Driving Range and local county courses. However, through the brutal sun and bad grounds, the golf players kept on swinging.

After a challenging season of playing such teams as New Providence, Oratory Prep, and A.L. Johnson, the Dayton golf team was still successful. Even though the golf team is labeled as a "team", individual performance is key to the sport. "Golf is an individual sport because if you make a mistake there is no one else who can fix it but yourself," says Junior Jason Cappa.

The memories and success of this golf season will be cherished for many years by many of the players. "I'll be playing golf for the rest of my life," Kyle Seeley insists. Many on Dayton's golf team shares his passion.

JUNIOR VARSITY

This year's Jonathan Dayton Bulldogs baseball team was on fire since the beginning of the competitive season. It was tough to follow last year's great season after losing seven senior starters; however, this year's dogs knocked it out of the park. Influenced by coaches Chris Loeffler and Brian Castello, senior York Cook says, "They keep it real and that's what I like about them." With a mix of being laid-back and enforcing pressure, according to senior Joe Furnaguera, the coaches used this strategy to have a successful season.

This year's seniors were confident that the season would be a winner, and they were right. "With the help of the underclassmen, even the new freshmen, we were able to have good chemistry to have a winning season," says senior Joe Furnaguera.

The team has improved by showing more dedication and heart than last year. Coaches and players were hopeful at the beginning of the season that the school would show more spirit, and the school pulled through to support the team. A majority of players started playing at a young age to continue their dreams all the way through life.

Teamwork was a definite aspect of the dogs' dynamics to win each and every game. Games that weren't as successful as others showed the team their weaknesses for hopeful improvement next season.

SOFTBALL

The bases were loaded, the pressure was on, the fans were screaming, and up at bat was Dayton's varsity softball team. "This team had good chemistry on and off the field this season. We had fun, but worked hard" says senior Bitzy Rodriguez reflecting on the season.

Softball is a very physical sport which requires a lot of teamwork. "I think the coaches are the most vital part of the team. Ms. Wells and Mrs. Rollis were an awesome influence on us," says junior Courtney Brahm about her coaches. Everyday Dayton's girls were ready for a 3:00 p.m. practice led by coaches Rollis and Wells. Each day these rigorous practices consisted of stretches, fielding, batting practice, and conditioning. Before the season started the girls even ran in the morning before school. All that practicing paid off - the varsity softball team had a very successful season, with high hopes of making it to States floating through every player's head.

Leading the team this year were captains and Seniors Alexia Moriello and Kerri Griffin, as well as juniors Stacey Sommer and Alyssa Karl. These girls were chosen because of their hard work and outstanding leadership skills. The loss of last year's seniors was terrible, but the young freshmen really stepped it up and their talent showed. "The seniors we lost were amazing and their enthusiasm is well missed, but as for the freshmen - they offer the team a lot of flair," says senior captain Alexia Moriello.

The 2006 season had a great deal to offer each girl and was one of the best seasons so far. We all hope that next year brings the same. The girls all played exceptionally well and gave each other plenty of advice that will stick with them the rest of their softball career and maybe even their lives. - By Carina Silva, Gina Molinaro, & Natalie Iarossi

The 2006 Dayton Boys Tennis team looked forward to making it back to where they ended last season. The Varsity team last year ended 13-7, most of last years players returned this year for another successful season.

Lead by seniors Joe Palitto, Lam Nyguen and sophomore Mario Grant and under the coaching of Mr. Keele, this year's team grew stronger. Knowing that they had the capability and "the potential to be state champs" drove them this season states Coach Keele.

In anticipation of a challenging season ahead, Coach Keele kept the team in good shape and ready for matches. Practices were more intense, including various hitting drills and, of course, lots of running. However, team players like senior Avery Pangalangan and Adam Hirst didn't seem to mind. Afterall, practice makes perfect.

A crucial match this year was played against nearby rival New Providence. Regardless of their challenging rivals, the team once again completed another successful season of Dayton Tennis.

As for playing the sport after high school, senior Lam Nguyen stated, "I can keep playing tennis until I am 80 years old." We'd love to see that.

Spring Track

As the warm weather arrived, the Jonathan Dayton Spring track team took off their boots and put on their running shoes. This year's team is bigger and better than ever with many new members and a whole new work out routine. Sophomore Tracy Horowitz stated, "It was a good atmosphere this year. Everybody got along and helped each other out." With the help of the coaches Ms. Zika, Mr. Cozza, Mr. Kozub, and Ms. Carter, the team had a very enjoyable and successful season.

The track team worked very hard this year and was pushed to new levels by the coaches. "As much as we all loved Mr. Byrne, track improved this year. There seemed to be more new recruits that actually cared and practices reached an entire new level of training", said senior Alex Grey. This year everyone worked to their full potential and had much success. Many of the underclassman participated in difficult events and were triumphant, leading the teams to numerous wins.

Although the loss of the seniors will impact the team, the incoming seniors, as well as the new underclassman show promise for next year's season. "I am confident that if the team continues to work hard, with the help of the coaches, Jonathan Dayton's Spring Track Team will get better as the years go on," said senior Lisa Horowitz.

THE FALL OF THE HOUSE OF USHER

Tim Kelly's SCARIEST adaptation was brought to the Dayton stage on Friday, November 18, 2005 and Saturday, November 19, 2005 for what was sure to be a THRILLING EVENT. Equipped with eerie lighting, fake blood, and an ominous coffin, audience members were LURED into the great mind of the infamous EDGAR ALLAN POE.

Tim Kelly's adaptation of the Edgar Allan Poe story, The Fall of the House of Usher, thrilled audience members as the cast ventured into haunted houses, old inns, and for two actresses...a coffin. Starring Noah Peyser as The Stranger, who the audience later discovered to be the mysterious Edgar Allan Poe, Michael Schwartz as Roderick Usher, and both Charline Tetiyevsky and Megan Izzo as Roderick's ill sister Madelaine (each performing on different nights), this was one of the most intense and artistic fall dramas to be performed in years.

Rehearsals can be considered the most important part of any production and ample rehearsals were needed to help the actors "set the mood". Although the rehearsal schedule got "hectic" near opening night, "it was reasonable," said junior Noah Peyser. It certainly was well worth it, as the show was a hit with audiences.

When reflecting back on rehearsal, Noah Peyser was very forthcoming to explain, "My favorite part of rehearsal was listening to Mrs. Chomko talking for thirty minutes about something that takes two minutes to explain."

The costumes were very suitable for the different moods throughout the show. The Ushers and their servants wore dark and eerie costumes, accentuating the sinister mood, while the tavern people wore lighter and less ghostly attire. The Fall of the House of Usher proved to be a huge success. Senior Rachel Rothspan said, "Our first rehearsal Mrs. Chomko told us it was going to be all about the mood and we were definitely able to create the morbid, melancholy mood needed for a Poe drama." - By Katie MacDonnell

Aspects of Love

It was everywhere; it was as if we couldn't escape the madness. Several months ago the students of Jonathan Dayton heard nothing but music in the hallways. The musical Aspects of Love, by Andrew Lloyd Webber, hit the scene during the weekends of March 10th and 17th. The play was simply a "rousing, artistic success," says Mr. Moskowitz, Jonathan Dayton's newest choir director.

Aspects of Love is a spectacular musical with a unique setting which grabs the audience's attention. Throughout this twisted love triangle, despite the situations the characters face, they all seemed to have one thing on their minds; love.

The story follows a young man named Alex Dillingham (Noah Peyser), who falls for an actress, named Rose Vibert (Sarah Hurwitz). The two fall madly in love, only to have it fall apart when Rose becomes involved with Alex's Uncle George (Michael Schwartz), who has an on-and-off affair with Italian sculptress, Giulietta Trapani (Anna D'Achille). Alex is later wooed by George's daughter, Jenny (Katie MacDonnell), which causes even more trouble for them.

This year's cast spent countless hours practicing for this show. "The practices at the beginning were about three to four hours. Then, as the show grew closer, they grew to at least six to seven hours," says senior Chris Mattice. Some days it felt as if the practices would never end, with costume fittings, scene changes, and line memorization, but the cast and crew knew it was all worth it in the end. "I was nervous and excited at the same time, but then you get used to it," freshman Karyn Rothspan said when asked how her first performance went.

The last performance went out with a bang on March 18th; some were saddened by the fact the show had come to an end, while others were just relieved. This was Mr. Moskowitz's first time directing a show for the Dayton stage, and it was an incredible experience for everyone. - By Karla Burrill, Danielle Annunziata, Sammi Boettcher & Drew Marks

In the spirit of Valentine's Day, Jonathan Dayton's finest came out and competed. Senior Joe Fuernaguera says that "It took a lot of hard work and determination to think of a skit to do." First, the guys came out in their everyday casual wear; senior Adam Hirst brightened up everybody's night with his outfit. Next, the guys gave it their all in the talent section, where Alex Blum dazzled the crowd with his rendition of "I'm the Sexy One."

The audience screamed for the third round - swim wear - where speedos, towels, and yes, even bikinis, were worn as bathing suits. Chris Muckle said "My favorite part of the competition was coming out in swim wear because everyone got to see my sexy body, but I don't think everyone found it that sexy!" Finally, the guys cleaned up and got dressed to impress in the formal wear competition. Junior Danny Shabat and his escort, Mr. White, wore matching outfits as they strolled down the runway. I've heard it said

That people come into our lives for a reason
Bringing something we must learn
And we are led
To those who help us most to grow
If we let them
And we help them in return.
Well, I don't know if I believe that's true
But I know I'm who I am today
Because I knew you...

Rudyard Kipling

Dearest Ryan,

You are the most wonderful son and brother any family could ever ask for. It's time for you to fly now. May your journey be filled with happiness, success, love, and laughter.

All Our Love,

Mom, Dad, Brooke and Kieran

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you:

If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too:

If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,

Or being hated, don't give way to hating,

And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream - and not make dreams your master:

If you can think - and not make thoughts your aim:

If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster

And treat those two impostors just the same:

If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken

Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,

Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,

And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings

And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,

And lose, and start again at your beginnings

And never breathe a word about your loss:

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew

To serve your turn long after they are gone,

And so hold on when there is nothing in you

Except the will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,

Or walk with kings - nor lose the common touch

If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,

If all men count with you, but none too much:

If you can fill the unforgiving minute

With sixty seconds' worth of distance run -

Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,

And - which is more - you'll be a Man, my son!

ALEXIA MORIELLO

Congratulations Alexia and the Class of 2006.

You are our silent HERO... It has been a joy to watch you grow and mature over the years. Thank you for the special moments. You have grown to become an amazing young lady. Enjoy college and remember luck is a product of being prepared. Set your goals high and be true to yourself.

"A pessimist sees the difficulty in every opportunity; an optimist sees the opportunity in every difficulty"- Sir Winston Churchill

We love you very much and will ALWAYS be there for you.

Love. Mom, Dad, Anthony, CJ & Zucca

Congratulations Michelle!
We have been nothing but proud of you since day #1. What a wonderful daughter you are.

Dear Mussolini – Remember the time we were in the hospital and we got smiley faces? Well, when we look at you we get smiley faces on our own faces, because you're a wonderful person. You are very smart, because you know how big Really Really Big Man's kitchen is. We would have also accepted, "humongous." Keep on rollerblading your way through college. Just don't knock over Pete's Playstation 2 video game console again. If you do then we've got but one thing to say to you. You've gotta be putting me on. flips quarter, rug magically appears

Bitzy Rodriguez

Dear Bitzy,

On January 5, 1988, we know our lives would be changed forever because we were having a girl. On February 4, 1988 at 7:42 AM, you entered this world and have kept moving forward ever since.

You have endured two older brothers and have challenged them for the past eighteen years. You have kept up the pace in sports, academics, socializing and commitments.

Now, at 18 years old and graduating from Jonathan Dayton, it is your time to shine. Your father and I have nurtured you, instilled morals and beliefs, and given you guidelines. Now you must take these teachings and just as you did in '88, excel forward.

There isn't a word in the dictionary that can explain how much we love you, admire you and are proud of you. Our wish for you is for your future to be filled with love, luck, happiness and success.

Elizabeth, you will always be daddy's little girl and have mommy's heart forever and ever.

Love, Mom and Dad

MELISSA RACHEL BOOKBINDER

To our Dearest Melissa,

You have filled our lives with more happiness than we could have ever imagined. Your smile brightens our days, and your love fills our hearts. We wish you only wonderful things as you begin your college career. We know that whatever you dream for yourself will be yours. Always remember how much you are loved, and that you will always light up our lives.

Love always,
Mom, Dad, and Pamela

Marco Pannella

Marco,

We are proud and honored to have a son like you. May God bless you and guide you in every decision you make.

The sky is limitless and you're in control of your destiny. May your future fulfill each and every dream that you have.

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Christopher

Dima Tereshchuk

Dearest Dima,

Since the moment you were born you have brought so much joy and happiness into our lives. Throughout your 18 years, we have been so proud of how you have shaped as a student, an athlete, and a person. You've grown into a handsome, intelligent, kind and caring young man. May your life be filled with much love, health and happiness. Believe in yourself and the future will be yours for the taking. Congratulations and good luck in college.

We love you so much!
Mom, Dad, and Grandma

You have filled our lives with joy and pride, our hearts with love. May your determination, passion and commitment bring you much happiness. Follow your dreams and make them come true. We will be cheering for you.

You convince us by your presence.

Love,

Dad, Mom, Leah and Bubbe.

Nick Delviscovo

Dear Nick,

I asked God for a son, and not only did he give me one, but he blessed me with the best one. You have brought me joy and laughter everyday. I am so proud of the way you have grown in many ways. Stay as sweet, sensitive, and caring as you are.

May you always have success and happiness in all that you do. No matter where life leads you, you will always have my love. Good luck in college and God Bless You!

Love,
Mom and Bruno

Jamie Stauhs

To our "J"~

From the day you were born, you have filled our lives with so much joy and pleasure. We are so proud of you and what you have accomplished. Your sweet "dimpled" smile is one of a kind. You are truly unique! Wherever life takes you, we know you will succeed. Just follow your heart and your dreams will come true. Always remember you are loved and cherished. (Love you "a bunchy bunch"!)

COLOPHON

The 2006 Yearbook, "Learn How to Play the Game," is 188 pages of cherished memories. Between the covers of this keepsake lie a year's worth of fun, laughter, hard work, and Bulldog pride. Special thanks go to Photo Editors Elizabeth Rodriguez and Katie MacDonnell, as well as Business Manager Erica Sperber. We were incredibly lucky to have had such an incredible Advisor, Mrs. Karyn Chomko, whose painstaking efforts made this yearbook a reality. We, along with the yearbook classes and staff, are extremely proud to present the 2006 Yearbook and hope that you enjoy it. Congratulations to the Class of 2006, and best of luck in all of your future endeavors.

Anna D'Achille and Yakentha Cadet,
Editors (Class of 2006)
